

Halm circulation pumps Company profile and philosophy

Founded in 1957 by Richard Halm, the Richard Halm GmbH & Co. KG quickly became a leading medium-sized company in the electric drive business.

Similar to the founder's attitude from almost 50 years ago we still are in close contact with our customers, who likewise value the high quality of our products.

"Success on the market can only be achieved if a company manages to offer close customer contact, know-how and high product quality all at the same time" (Richard Halm).

Almost 50 years of experience in the field of drive technology and more than 10 million electric motors are our expertise which has been incorporated in any of our circulation pumps produced in the past. At all times we have developed electric motors and circulation pumps for our customers in both a cooperative and innovative way.

In accordance with the rapid market changes and the continued globalisation around 300 employees inside and outside Germany produce products of high quality standard for strong, leading partners and customers.

Satisfied customers are also the most evident proof of a straight product and quality policy. This of course includes certification according to DIN EN ISO 9001:2000 of all Halm production locations and the Halm philosophy of an all-embracing quality management system which comprises production processes as well as company departments.

One of the main prerequisites for the production of innovative market-driven products is comprehensive motivation and qualification of the company staff. We therefore provide adequate education and training to our employees.

By combining many different components, features and advantages high grade solutions can be offered to the users of our products.

"Satisfied customers and employees are the main basis which allows us to be able to look back to such a long company history" (Wolfgang Halm, managing partner).
